Executive Director's Message

Every child online today is vulnerable to being engaged by a predator or being a victim of cyberbullying. As criminals are getting more advanced online using AI to exploit children, our laws also need to advance to protect our youth from the dangers of online activity.

We are very pleased by New York Congressman Nick Langworthy's leadership in introducing this legislation, as it will support law enforcement in the ongoing fight to find and prosecute online child predators.

Groundbreaking Partnership

"Safe Surfin' Foundation has partnered with Skyll, an innovator in educational technology, to implement this advanced curriculum across the state. Skyll's AI-powered, game-based learning platform will deliver the social media safety education as an interactive, gamified learning experience, personalized for each student. This approach leverages the power of storytelling and simulation to engage students in critical thinking about online safety."
